

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXIX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1901. 9 A. M.

NO. 18

Hartwell, Casey County.

Whooping cough is still raging here, the three little sons of James Riggs being the last victims.

Cale Brown, Jr., is getting together a fine lot of poplar to be cut by V. Morse at his mill just set near this place.

C. R. Carson sold to Lutes & Co. a bunch of fat hogs, averaging 130 pounds. Fear of cholera caused him to sell sooner than he intended.

Mr. Hardin Newell has been celebrating the advent of spring by refurbishing and otherwise improving his comfortable home on Carpenter's Creek.

Uncle Will Myers, after a long, busy life has given up the responsibility of the farm and is spending his old days peacefully with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cale Brown, Jr.

William Short, of this section, was severely hurt by falling from his barn loft. It is thought that at least two of his ribs were torn from the spinal column and he is otherwise badly injured.

The new postoffice and store at this place is doing a flourishing business and filling a long felt want, this neighborhood having heretofore to depend on Middleburg, Liberty and Kidd's Store, each of them several miles distant.

The mad dog scare is over and people have ceased to hate the canine members of the family, and they are again allowed to come into the house and receive their share of the good things. There was no damage done to stock except by the dog that first went mad. This dog belonged to James Fogle. He first showed signs of hydrophobia by trying to do a lot of promiscuous biting among stock about the place, and succeeded in biting one of his finest cows, which has not as yet gone mad. The numerous dogs of this section and a fine hog, belonging to James Riggs, showed signs of rabies immediately after the four weeks were out, and were promptly killed.

The Triennial Conclave.

Ryan Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, of Danville, will be represented at the Triennial Conclave, Louisville, the fourth week of next August, by 75 Knights and ladies. Right Eminent Sir Henry G. Sandifer, of Danville, Past Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of the State, went down to Louisville, Wednesday, to arrange for the pilgrimage of the Ryan Templars, many of whom have residence in Lancaster and Stanford, as well as in Little Britain. He closed a contract with T. L. Quisenberry for his entire house at 521 West Chestnut, where accommodations will be furnished for 50 of the party, while the other 25 will stop with friends and relatives in the city. The residence secured is the well-known old Casseday home, one of the most delightful places in the Falls City. It is believed that 60 members of Ryan will be in line. This is the only Kentucky Commandery with the distinction of having furnished a Grand Master of the Knights Templar of America—Most Eminent Sir Warren LaRue Thomas—who served between 1895 and 1898. This is the highest office within the gift of the order. It is understood that several members of Ryan will also do escort duty two days before the conclave begins, while the hundreds of commanderies are arriving in Louisville on special trains. The place selected for the Danville, Lancaster and Stanford Knights makes it very convenient to the headquarters of the Escort Committee, which will be only a block away from the old Casseday home. The preparation for the Triennial on the part of the Louisville Templars continues. There are now 50 committees at work on the preliminaries. An entertainment fund of $100,000 is being raised to provide a great program of attractions for the visitors who are expected to number 150,000.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.

QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.
All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

CHEAP TO CINCINNATI.—The L. & N. will sell round-trip tickets to Cincinnati Sunday at $1.50. The train is the regular one which leaves Stanford at 2:15 A. M. and returns at 1:10 A. M. The train leaves Cincinnati at 7:55 P. M.

The C. U. And Centre To Be Consolidated.

At Louisville, after seven hours of heated discussion, the Southern Presbyterian Synod passed the resolution providing for the consolidation of Central University, of Richmond, and Centre College, of Danville. But few dissenting votes were cast, those opposing the measure either leaving the church or remaining silent. The Northern Synod passed the same resolution early in the evening without a dissenting vote, all the members being in favor of the consolidation. Both synods adopted without opposition, a resolution providing for the uniting of the theological seminary at Danville with that in Richmond. This latter action is still subject to the approval of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

The fight over the consolidation of the two colleges is not yet at an end, as the resolution must now be referred to the Alumni Association, the founder of Central University. Those opposed to the removal of the college from Richmond intend to carry their fight into this association and believe that they can secure a sufficient number of voters to defeat the resolution.

Under the terms of the agreement drafted by the curators of Central University, which was ratified by both synods, the name of Centre College is to be changed to Central Kentucky University and the board of directors is to be made up of part of the directors of both colleges. The new institution is to receive all the assets of Central University, amounting to about $200,000, and consisting of the college buildings and 12 acres of land at Richmond and a lot of miscellaneous securities. The land and part of the buildings are to be sold at once.

The new university is to be made the foremost educational institution in the State. Central University will be changed into a high school which is to remain at Richmond.

By the action of the synods Danville loses and Louisville gains the Theological Seminary.

Crab Orchard.

Work at the Springs is progressing nicely and Manager Willis and his energetic wife will soon have the buildings and grounds looking as they did in days of yore.

A syndicate has bought the old Vanderpool property at the depot and will tear down all the old buildings and erect a sanitarium and hotel, which will be quite an addition and improvement to our town.

Mr. Basil Guest is not expected to live more than a day or two. Mrs. B. G. Boyle and Dr. Jas. W. and Will Guest are up from Louisville, called here by the serious illness of their brother. Dr. Stapp is slowly improving and his many friends expect to see him out again when summer comes.

Mr. J. H. Collier has purchased the residence of Mrs. B. C. Anderson, and she with her daughter and son will move to Oklahoma soon, to be with the other members of her family. Joe Newland has returned from Florida much improved. He has gone to work for the L. & N. S. P. Gray and family, of Bluefield, W. Va. have rented Mrs. F. W. Dillon's cottage for the summer. Miss Fannie Redd has just returned from a pleasant visit to Dr. Cooper at Livingston. Miss Mattie Beazley is visiting relatives in Lancaster.

Along with a good likeness of the gentleman the Danville News prints the following:

W. P. Walton, the second railroad district candidate for railroad commissioner, is so peculiarly fitted to this position of importance to the people that his election seems assured.

Mr. Walton has demonstrated times without number his fearlessness and integrity when the interests of the people were assailed, and withal is a man of judgment that while protecting the interests of the people would give justice to the railroads as well. He is not an extremist—he is an enthusiast when it comes to right and in matters of public concern will hew to the mark and let the chips fall where they may. He is a democrat from principle and has fought the battles of the party from infancy and when others who have achieved higher rewards have faltered. The democracy will reward this faithful servant and in so doing will honor itself.

The number of divorces granted in the territory to those who obtained residence for the purpose and left as soon as the decree was granted was fully 10,000.

The St. Louis Republic of April 20 says: "For almost a year Miss Maybell Fayne, of Cincinnati, O., who is visiting in St. Louis, and Arthur B. Lyon of Nashville, Tenn., have kept their wedding a secret. Miss Fayne is the daughter of the late Dr. T. J. Fayne, of Crab Orchard, Ky. While Miss Fayne was visiting friends at Bowling Green, last May, she met Mr. Lyon, to whom she was engaged. He said he was tired of waiting and it was agreed that they be married in secret. The plan carried and with the exception of a few friends, who witnessed the marriage, no one was the wiser."

Thomas Hall, of Lamont, Ky., was afraid of being buried alive. At his death an air shaft was built into his grave and a signal flag attached to the top with a cord running to the wrist of the corpse. INDIANA'S attorney general seems to be about on par with her governor and his keepakes, fugitives Taylor and Finley. Somebody thought the attorney general's opinion worth something and asked him concerning Durbin's honoring a requisition for the fugitives and he answered as follows: "My opinion is that this requisition for Taylor and Finley will not be presented. If they were I know what I would do and do quick. I would never surrender a man to a State where there is no pretense of a fair trial, as the constitution prescribes. The Ripley trial was concocted for effect." Speaking of the requisition for the fugitives the Glasgow Times asks that if the governor of Indiana still refuses to surrender them, why not offer a reward of $5,000 or $10,000 each for the men who are indicted for the murder of a governor of the State? It strikes us that the most drastic measures possible should be resorted to to show the governor of Indiana that Kentucky has rights that must be respected. Taylor and Finley should be brought back to the scene of their crime for trial if it has to be done by force. Let Gov. Beckham see that the laws of the State are no longer defied.

A REAL romance, which shows that all the pretty love affairs are not confined to novels, has just reached the climax near Paducah. Thirty-six years ago an Ohio soldier, now a retired capitalist, was wounded in battle in Tennessee. He was taken to a residence nearby where a little girl nursed him and to whom he became greatly attached. He recovered and returned to his home where a wife and children awaited him. The tender ministrations of the Kentucky girl were often referred to and pleasantly discarded upon. A years ago the man's wife died and recently a longing to see the girl, who had done so much for him, caused him to set out to look for her. He succeeded in his search after much difficulty and found that she was still a maiden, fancy free. Then he laid siege to her heart. She surrendered it unconditionally, they were married Tuesday and as the novelist say, let us hope will be their fortune, and "they ever afterwards lived happily."

THE pension commissioner, H. Clay Evans, who is to be removed because he regards his oath and is not willing to unlock the U. S. Treasury and bid the would-be pensioners walk in and help themselves, says there are more pensioners on the roll to day than at any time in the history of the United States. The number of persons drawing pensions is 995,096, which is 1,500 more than in 1898, when it was thought the list had reached high-water mark. The amount required to pay this army of pensioners is now about $150,000,000 a year and constantly growing. This is a great country, but such a drain is sufficient, with its other growing expenses, to throw it into bankruptcy.

THE Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat has taken a backward step, returning to the weekly issue, after being a semi-weekly for several years. The reasons given are that the financial returns do not justify a twice-a-week issue and that country subscribers generally prefer a weekly. The expense of a semi-weekly is nearly double, but it must be a backward and behind the times constituency that would prefer a return to the hebdomadal issue.

THE assassination organs are making a desperate effort to prove that Gov. Bradley's turn-down for the U. S. judgeship was not on account of his testimony in the Ripley case, but the more they lie about it, the plainer the charge is shown to be true. The ex-governor can afford to lose out for such a reason, satisfied that he will in the end come out more than conqueror.

If the charge that he sold his vote for $150 is true, Hon. E. B. Wilson, speaker of the Tennessee House, is a "cheap baby" indeed. He would make money by moving to Kentucky and getting the republican to elect him to the legislature.

THE Lexington Democrat of yesterday under the heading "Bradley Angry" has the most complete and truthful story of the treatment of Gov. Bradley by Hanna and his crowd that has ever been written and ought to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every honest republican in the State. That the president has been a willing tool in the hands of the crowd determined to humiliate the ex-governor because he was too honorable and high toned to do their bidding shows the manner of man who occupies the highest office in the land. He may be president de jure, but Hanna is president de facto.

THE deed is done. The president yesterday appointed A. M. J. Cochran, of Maysville, to be judge of the new Federal district, James H. Tinsley, of Barbourville, district attorney, and S. G. Sharp, the turncoat and traitor, of Lexington, marshal. It is not a very imposing layout and if the republican leaders do not repent the action in sackcloth and ashes we will acknowledge that we are neither a prophet nor the son of one.

THE appointment of Judge Tinsley to a Federal position will give Gov. Beckham the appointment of his successor, who will doubtless be James D. Black, a capable, upright and fearless man.

A Private Letter Made Public.

I hand you herewith $1 cash, in payment for the I. J. up to March 1902. I am glad that your brother, W. P. Walton, is a candidate for railroad commissioner. Hope every democrat in Lincoln county will vote for him and I think they will as he is a firm man. It would not surprise me if a lot of good republicans voted for him. We have a few gold democrats at this place who thought the Kentucky democrats were abusing W. S. Taylor too much, but since the Ripley trial I have not heard them speak of Taylor. It seems like the Ripley trial has put a quietus on their speaking members. I was for M. F. North for representative and advised the people of Lincoln county to nominate him and they did. Now I advise the democrats to honor W. P. Walton with the nomination for R. R. commissioner and you will make no mistake. We Texans are all good democrats. We can not vote in the race but we have plenty of oil we can furnish to light up the way for Mr. Walton to run. This is not necessary. Give him the track and he will do the running. He will run clear to democratic headquarters. I am for Mr. Walton. I know him to be a gentleman and a true blue democrat.

Texas has been blessed this year with oil and bugs. Wheat and oats have been completely destroyed in this part of the State by bugs and flies. The farmers are preparing for a large cotton crop. This county raised about 600,000 bushels of wheat last year; average price was about 60c. Value of wheat was nearly $360,000. Valley View people bought and shipped at 400,000 bushels of wheat at 60c—$240,000, paid out here at Valley View for wheat alone, saying nothing about oats, cotton and live stock. Will be no wheat shipped from here this year as it is all dead. The farmers are preparing for a large cotton crop. If the cotton is a fair crop and brings a fair price, trade will be 25 or 30 per cent. better with a cotton crop than it would have been with a wheat crop. A cotton crop puts more money into circulation as it requires a great amount of labor and the laboring man is the man that puts the money into circulation. Laboring men are coming in here nearly every day from other parts of the State and from other States. Some of the farmers have given their land free of charge this year for cotton. They do this in order that the land may be in shape to put in wheat this year. Wheat does well after cotton.

The weather is warm and nice in Texas today. The trees are green and the leaves on the trees are almost grown. I notice in the I. J. that many of the Lincoln county people are leaving for Oklahoma. I expect to go up myself in July or August, or as soon as the land is opened up. McWHEAT.

PULASKI, KY.—Wheat has improved wonderfully during the past month and the prospects are good for a fair crop. Oat sowing is completed with about the usual acreage sown. Most of the corn ground is ready for the harrow and a few acres have been planted. Prospects are favorable for a large fruit crop, regardless of the snow and freezing weather of the past few days. A serious epidemic of measles visited this section this spring and we note the death of three infants of the disease and a number of older children in a serious condition. Hogs and cattle are very scarce in this section and command a high price. Quite a number of our young folks took in the excursion to Cincinnati last Sunday. C. B. Marcum will visit Lexington, Cincinnati and possibly relatives in Indiana the coming week. G. C. S.

W. A. Rice Dead.

The Daily Sentinel of Grand Junction, Col., contains the following notice of the death of W. A. Rice, a relative of Dr. J. K. VanArsdale, of this place:

This community was shocked and grieved this morning to learn of the death of William A. Rice, one of the most esteemed citizens of Mesa county, Colorado, and one of its pioneers. Early in January he had an attack of grip which left his system in a run down condition. Friday he was taken ill with an attack of pneumonia and from it he never recovered, gradually sinking until his death. He was never of a very robust physique and the disease when once fairly under way soon claimed him for its own. He was born in Missouri in 1846 and came to this county among the pioneers of the Western slope of Colorado in 1882. For many years he was engaged in the retail lumber trade in this city, associated with his brother, P. A. Rice, the firm name being Rice Bros. They did an extensive trade. A few years since the partnership was dissolved and the deceased retired from active business life to the farm. He was identified with the prohibition movement in this city and county. He was one of the earnest and honest workers in this movement and no one questioned his motives. He was friendly alike to all classes, having many warm friends among those engaged in the liquor traffic, whom he valiantly opposed. On each recurring municipal election he was to be seen on the street in his own carriage doing work for the cause of temperance, the motto pinned to the back of his carriage "The Saloon Must Go." Had he been other than the most guileless man, his professions in the cause of temperance might have been questioned, but they never were.

Galton carries the blood of four leading families, Wilkes, Hambletonian, Mambrino Chief and Seeley's American Star. He is a great show horse, as has been tested in the show rings. His colts are fast and fine with great action and are commanding the highest prices. They have been shown two years in succession at the Hustonville and Danville fairs and have won the largest premiums for harness classes over all others. One of his colts won a $75 sweepstake and a $25 premium and another beat the great Jane Carter that J. T. Cronshaw paid $1,000 for and also beat the gelding that C. C. Carpenter sold for $500 in the sweepstake. Galton has proven a great cross on saddle mares as he gives them finish action and gait. Come and see his colts before breeding. Will stand at my stable 2 miles west of Hustonville on Bradfordsville pike at
